[0 : 00] The 25th of September, be still in the presence of the Lord. Psalm 37 7, be still in the presence of the Lord and wait patiently for him to act.

Life is a funny mixture. There are days when it's all sunshine and roses, and there are days when it is one frustration after the other. David, the man who wrote Psalm 37, knew all about that.

In this psalm, he really speaks to himself as he reflects on the way things are going on around him. He finds it difficult to keep quiet when he really wanted to shout loudly about the apparent unfairness of life.

Ungodly people prospered, rich people were callous, and evil seemed to go unchecked. And God tells him to calm down. Don't worry about the wicked. Don't envy those who do wrong.
